Subject: Ramaco Resources, Inc. Announces Issuance of Final Mining and Reclamation Permit for Berwind Mine Property

Hi Laura: Need to figure something for Z to own this success. The Berwind mine has been idle and they went to work, yesterday, only 5 days after I approved a guidance document. Three more companies should have plans for getting to work later this/early next week, too. We will know more later today. Maybe we can start with a social media pop. In any event, Berwind is about 5 times larger than the PA project POTUS highlighted a few weeks back. Plus, this is something that would only happen under current, no-nonsense leadership. Copying Tucker who brought this concern to my attention and helped run the traps.
